Welcome!

Welcome to (or back to) Miami University Hamilton! The library staff is very excited about this new school year and looking forward to working with all of you. "The Link" is Rentschler Library's newsletter for faculty and staff. Each edition will be a little different, but you will always find information about the library and about research and college students. On the following pages, you will find more information about some of the many services we offer and some of the ways that we can assist you. If you have any questions at all, or would like to use any of the services we offer, please let us know.

Course Reserves

What are Course Reserves?

Course reserves can be supplemental resources, required readings outside of your class textbook, or videos that students need to watch. You (the instructor) determine the circulation time for each item, which can include 2-hour (library use only), 2-hour/overnight, 1-day, or 3-day checkouts. Only your personal copies and Miami University Libraries' copies can be placed on reserve; we are unable to put OhioLINK items or materials from other libraries on reserve.

Can I put items on Reserve for my students to download or photocopy at the library?

The library's equipment cannot be used to download reserve videos or reserve music that is protected by copyright. Instead, DVDs and CDs can be played on the public computers. Students can use the library's copiers to reproduce or email pdfs of supplemental print materials, like articles and book chapters. However, it is a violation of copyright law to photocopy or scan an entire textbook.

How do I put items on Reserve?

You can stop by the desk at the library and fill out a reserves form, or you can get the form online at www.ham.miamioh.edu/library/services/for-faculty/reserves-information-for-faculty/ and email it to mille854@miamioh.edu. Please make reserve requests at least 7 days prior to when the item(s) need to be available to students. For more information, please contact Dana Carlsen at mille854@miamioh.edu or 513-785-3179.

Tired of only seeing websites on Works Cited pages? We can help!

Requiring a research assignment and want your students to use the best possible sources? It's not too late to schedule library instruction! We will tailor our presentation directly to your students' needs and provide time for hands-on experience searching library databases. Some of the things we cover include formulating search strategies, evaluating sources, and using the library's resources. Our instruction lab seats 25 students, but we can offer alternatives for larger classes. Requests must be made at least one week in advance so that we can prepare the best possible learning experience; sessions are subject to lab and librarian availability.

Teaching a hybrid or online course and requiring a research-based assignment? We can still provide library instruction for your students! We will create a custom page that can be linked to in your course site that will include links to assignment-appropriate resources, give students pointers on how to conduct research in those resources, and provide students with contact information in case they need further assistance. We can even add in some video tutorials! If you are teaching a hybrid course, the course research page works really well in conjunction with a face-to-face library instruction session, but it is not necessary.

You can request an instruction session through our online form: www.ham.miamioh.edu/library/services/for-faculty/library-instruction-request-form/ or contact Mark Shores at shoresml@miamioh.edu or 785-3203.

Streaming Video

Kanopy is a streaming video platform available through the libraries. It hosts an award-winning collection of more than 8,000 films from the Criterion Collection, PBS, California Newsreel, and other leading producers. All films include captions and interactive transcripts, and classroom and public performance rights. You can also create clips or teaching playlists to embed in your courses in Canvas. If you cannot find a video in Kanopy that will work for your course, we can digitize DVDs and VHS tapes for streaming. Here are some important things you need to know:

- Due to copyright law, only materials owned by the Miami University Libraries can be converted to a streaming format. The library cannot stream instructors' personal copies of films or materials owned by OhioLINK libraries, but not owned by Miami University Libraries.
- The library requires 7-10 days notice to prepare your materials for use. This allows us time to request items from MUM or Oxford if necessary, to troubleshoot if there are technical problems with the conversion process, and to fill all requests during peak times of the semester.
- After your content has been converted, the library will send you a link to the digitized version of the material you request. This link can be added to your Canvas course site for students to access the streaming video. In order to remain compliant with copyright law, all links to streamed content will expire at the end of the current semester. If you need to use the same title again later, simply contact the library and request a new link.

To get additional information about streaming videos or to request a title to be streamed for your class, please contact Mark Shores at shoresml@miamioh.edu or 513-785-3203.

Policies and lead time are subject to change pending ongoing discussions about and changes to the University's accessibility guidelines.*

New Furniture!

Over the summer we worked on phase one of giving the library a whole new look. We've replaced most of the heavy wood furniture with lighter furniture with wheels, so it can be configured to meet studying and group-work needs. A new computer layout with all new tables, chairs, and computers greet users as they walk in the door. And, some new rocking chairs add to our already versatile seating options. The lab also has brand new computers, and more comfortable task chairs. We'll be hosting an Open House soon to showcase the new look and new furniture—watch for information coming soon. But, you don't have to wait until the Open House to check it out. Stop in any time!

Access New York Times and Washington Post for free!!

Miami University regional faculty, staff, and students now have access to the New York Times and Washington Post online without having to pay for individual subscriptions.

For the New York Times:

Use your miamioh.edu email address to create an account. You must create your account while on campus. After you create the account on campus, it can be accessed from anywhere. The subscription includes daily access to all online content except for the crossword. For instructions and more information, look at the "New Users: How to Activate a Pass" section of the page at: <http://libguides.lib.miamioh.edu/nyt>

For the Washington Post:

Use your miamioh.edu email address to create your free account. You don't have to be on campus to set it up. More information and instructions can be found at: <http://libanswers.lib.miamioh.edu/faq/188677>

Book Club!!

The next Hamilton campus book discussion group will meet Thursday, Sept. 28th, 12:15 pm in Room 207 in Rentschler Library. We will be discussing the novel “The Storied Life of A.J. Fikry” by Gabrielle Zevin. The group meets in Rentschler Library towards the end of each month. Books are announced a full month ahead of time to allow participants to request copies from area libraries. Announcements about the next meeting and information about the books are sent out to the regional faculty and staff email lists and are posted on the TV screens around the campuses. Please email Mark Shores at shoresml@miamioh.edu if you have questions.

Staff News

We're excited to welcome Samantha Young as our newest library staff member! You probably recognize Samantha—she has been a student worker in the library for a few years. In her new role, Samantha will be taking on many responsibilities including handling all periodicals, library purchasing, and requisitions. Make sure you stop in and say “Hi” to Samantha!

Carrie Girton will be presenting at the Kentucky Library Association's (KLA) Annual Conference in Louisville, KY at the end of September, and will also be presenting and doing a poster session at the Pennsylvania Library Association's (PaLA) Annual Conference in October.
